

Colour balance and levels enhanced
Box blur

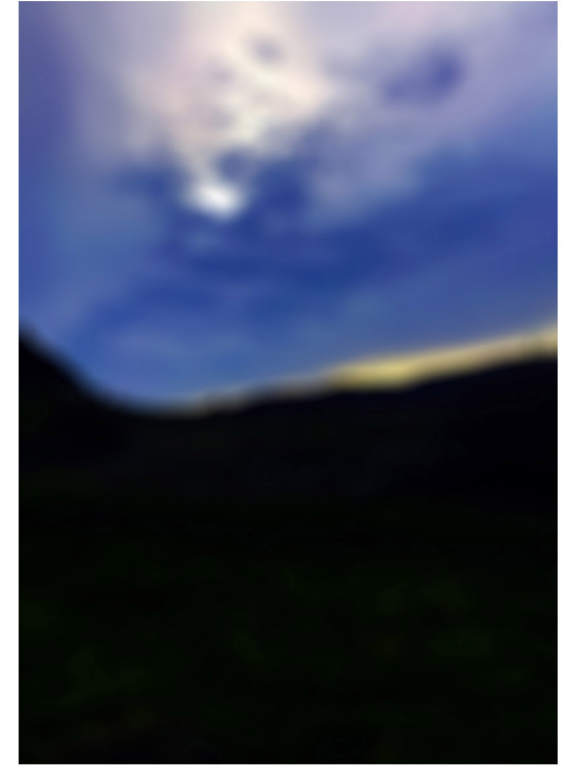

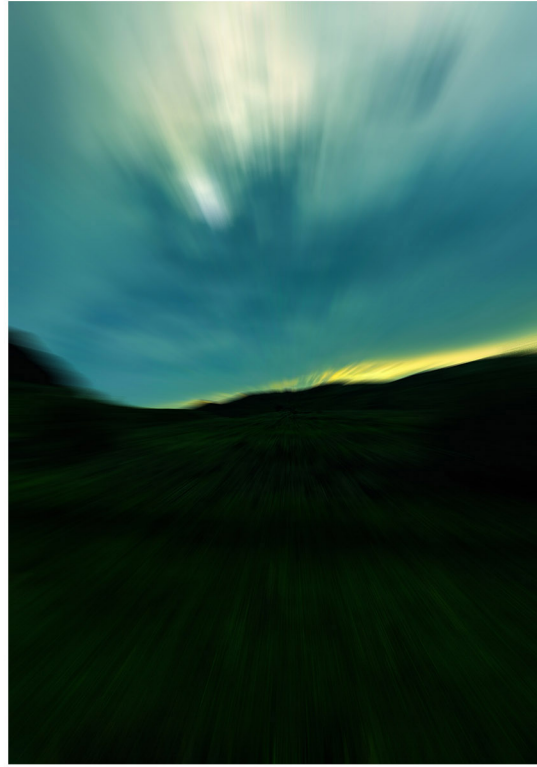

Research - photograph of tarnished statue Photographs broken down through blur editing to colour inspired by the tarnishing of metal over time

Colour balance and levels enhanced Radial blue and box blur breaking the structure of the photograh down into colour inspired by weathering and tarnishing detail

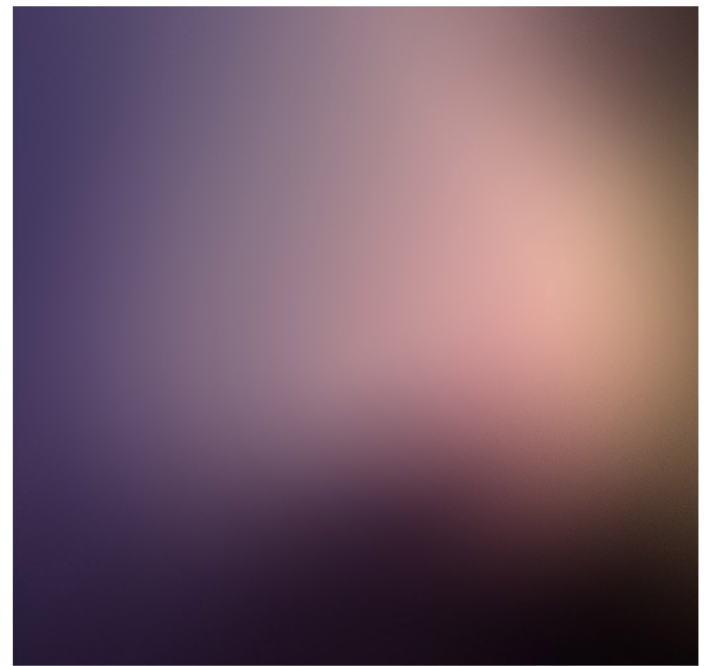

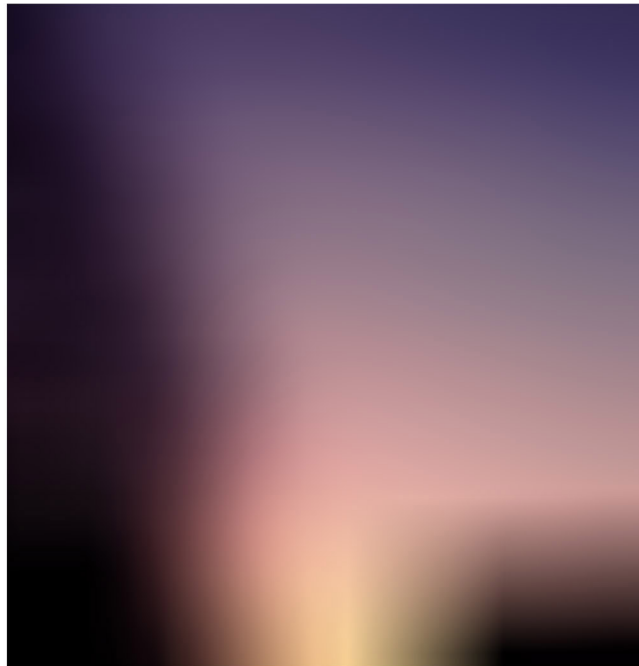

Research - photograph of ancient Arthur's Seat meeting the sky Colour and levels enhanced and broken down reflective of things wearing away over time

Research - photograph of fountain in Holyrood Palace forecourt sculpture detail enhanced in black and white then distorted in areas to enhance where the stone is wearing away over time and exposure to elements

Research - close up photos of weathered ancient rock, Arthur's Seat
Colour enhanced inspired by trend and tarnishing and blurred or distorted also enhancing idea of wearing away over time

Research - photograph of the lilac sky over Edinburgh which appears throughout winter Blurred into colours to convey a mood rather than detail

Forms of metal - metals can go from solid, to soft molton material, to a change in aesthetic entirely and used to create intricate and detailed forms too.

Research: Rusted iron weathered by exposure to natural elements
The shapes are interesting but blurred down and distorted and enhanced slightly with the intention of building texture back into in different ways, inspired by the original rusting process.

Research: Really intense rusted iron. Weathered naturally outdoors.
Edited into colour variant with the intention of adding the texture back in through screen print and embroidery.

Rock - from organic natural lumps protruding from the earth, to man intervening to create intricate stone carvings. The same material in two entirely different forms.